What's Your Idea About It?

Mrs. Never Pleased—"There's no use talking, this is the highest price town in America. Stores that do carry nice things want a fortune for them. Just look at this dress that I paid $55 for while it was on sale; it don't fit, makes me look ten years older and 50 pounds heavier."

Miss Ever Happy—"That's strange. I never have any trouble; maybe it's because I always buy my clothes at Rosenfield's. They have such wonderful new Fall Suits and Dresses—and the most beautiful new Fall Hats you ever saw. Why don't you try them? I know you will be satisfied."

Garbage Smells To High Heaven While City Drivers Strike

The fetid fumes of neglected garbage smite the nostrils of downtown flat dwellers as well as suburban burghers and commuters to any nook of the city where the stench of brown-stone and granite halls in the select residential sections, while the stench of city street employees goes on. More than 300 negro drivers are out.

Monday a number of the street men went back to work but quit again when strike manipulators intimidated them by threats forcing them to quit again.

The matter is now under consideration by the city commissioners. The police department has issued orders to arrest the ringleaders and break up the strike.

increase and will therefore stand pat. Some garbage trucks are still running and gathering up garbage from business houses, hotels and restaurants.

Dr. J. L. Andrews, superintendent of the city health department, announced Tuesday that the 10 men who have remained at work so far will be retrained by sanitary officers with trucks downtown Wednesday and efforts will be made to clean up garbage as much as the limited force will allow.

Ample protection from outside interference will be afforded, according to Dr. Andrews.

METHODS USED BY STOCK SWINDLERS ARE INNUMERABLE

Getting Nest Egg of Thrifty Citizen Has Become Fine Art With Fakers Who Have Nothing for Something.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 5.—A good deal is being heard just now about stock swindlers who promise thrifty people with a small nest egg to give up their war savings stamps or Liberty bonds in exchange for worthless "shares of stock." If you think that a stock swindler is always a J. Rufus Wallingford, replete with white vest, silk hat, spats, a cane and a watch chain, you are apt to be taken in. For when the real stock swindler approaches you, he is usually a man in no way corresponding to the mental picture you may have of a promoter of worthless securities.

Here is the way he often looks, and his method of approach, detailed in the Dearborn Independent:

Manner of Approach.

He has many ways of approach and most of them are copied from the methods employed by legitimate business men. He may approach you personally, or he may do it through the mail. He may have a highly colored prospective or he may merely make verbal promises and tell you of the fortunes made in stocks. It is even possible he may be a resident of your community, known to you or unknowingly acting as the agent of sinister interests. The chances are that it will be hard for you to distinguish between the responsible and the irresponsible concern. The latter class always enters the field under a borrowed mantle of respectability. And the chances are also that the stock swindler who is proceeding just within the law, not far within, but far enough so that after you have relinquished your bond or your money you can not reach him.

There are, however, two marks of the swindler which are common and easy to see. Once you find them, beware of the bait that is offered. These signs are, first, the very great willingness of the promoter to take your Liberty bond or war savings stamps in place of cash, and second, his glowing promise that the investment which he offers will pay big returns immediately. The former is a new but the latter is an old device.

If the stock broker who approaches you contrasts the return on which the investment is offered with that which you are getting on your Liberty bond or war savings stamps, and depreciates the value of clinging to your government paper, shun him.

Handling Grifters.

But there is a duty devolving upon you which will not permit you to let the matter rest. There is a better way of handling the grifter than by merely ignoring his advances. Go to your bank. Hand over to its officials the printed prospectus which you may have received, or lacking that, whatever data you have on the individual who has tried to get your bond, together with the name of the stock he is offering for the sale.

If the investment is a safe one, your bank will tell you so. But if it is doubtful or if the banker has no information concerning it, he will report the case to the federal reserve board. When the report reaches Washington the government will interest itself. It will determine whether the stock offered to you is of value and whether the promoter made for it are false or true. If it will, in this manner, inform you of the new stock scheme and if, through the federal trade commission, take up the case much sooner than will be possible if it is completed to wait several months for complaints from investors who are finally convinced that they have been deceived.

Do not under any circumstances be fooled by the stock swindler's statement that the banks and "big business" are against him and that his stock is because they want to seize control of his company. That is another old dodge. The legitimate stock broker will not object to government investigation. Such men and concerns do not fear investigation. They welcome it because they are anxious to protect their standing and their line of business by weeding out the crooks who live on borrowed reputations.

Holy Relic Used To Affect Cures

HOLY RELIC USED BY REV. JOHN H. SOUTHWICK.

This holy relic, used by the Rev. John H. Southwick, in his healing work, during the "miraculous" revival held at St. Ann's church, New York, is said to have made many cures. It was brought from Rome 15 years ago and during the infantile paralysis epidemic was used with remarkable success. The relic, which is a small, ornate, silver-colored box, is said to contain the bones of a saint. It is used by the Rev. Southwick in his healing work, and is said to have made many cures.

ENGLISH Y. M. C. A. CUTS SEASIDE HOTEL PROFITS

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Americans who find the cost of vacation high that they cannot afford this year to go to the mountains or seashore will be interested in the way in which the Young Men's Christian Association is attempting to solve the problem in England.

Seaside profiteers have made the average English family that thousands who before the war sought recreation on the coast of England, were unable to do so this year. The hotels have jumped their prices to unheard-of figures. The Y. M. C. A. is offering these families a bed and breakfast at those coast resorts at $1.25 a day. The association is offering to furnish nurses and accommodations for children so that mothers can have a real holiday. To accomplish this the association rented a hotel at Felixstowe and another at Southend and established a tent camp at Herne Bay, equipping them with such furniture as it was able to obtain. All valuables must be left at home and only old clothes can be worn.

No charge is being made for children less than four years old and reduced prices are quoted for those of less than eight years. This permits a family in ordinary circumstances to enjoy the holiday season at much the same price as prevailed before the war.

Y. M. C. A. leaders are planning to extend their vacation accommodations to other short resorts and to use for this purpose two military camps.

Have you noticed the long delayed street repairs being made on your street? They are costing money. Are your taxes paid?

G. O. P. USES UNFAIR MEANS IN LIQUOR FIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—In a bulletin sent today to its branches and members throughout the United States, the League to Enforce Prohibition declares that the so-called "Republican Publicity Association," which is conducting a propaganda campaign against the league of nations, has no authority to speak for the Republican party and does not represent in any way the Republican national organization. The statement says:

League to Enforce Prohibition issues this warning because many persons have given undue attention to the pronouncements of the "Republican Publicity Association." In the belief that they express the official views of the party organization. The Republican Publicity Association is purely a private organization controlled by a few office holders and ex-officio holders who include the negligible enemies of the league of nations. Its statements represent the opinions of the ultra-radical group among the opponents of the league covenant.

The chairman and one of the chief moving spirits in the association is the Hon. Jonathan Bourke, Jr., ex-Senator from Oregon. Mr. Bourke does not even represent the majority sentiment of the Republican party. He is a Democrat, favoring ratification of the league covenant. It is well known that the association not only has no authority to speak for the Republican party, but through its unscrupulous attacks on the league covenant is causing serious embarrassment to the Republican leaders who are opposing all efforts to make the league a party issue.

The declarations issued by the Republican Publicity Association show that this organization, or rather its officers and executive committee, for it has no constituency, is opposed to the entrance of the United States into any league of nations or other international agreement. It advocates a policy of eternal selfishness, which the American people repudiated forever when they entered the struggle for world peace.

BUREAU OF MINES WILL SOON BE REORGANIZED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Engineering and mining men throughout the country will be deeply interested in important reorganization plans of the bureau of mines. Dr. F. G. Cottrell, chief metallurgist of the bureau, who became a national figure through the invention of the Cottrell process for utilizing smelter fumes by extraction of arsenic and various other commercial chemicals from the escaping noxious gases, has been named assistant director in charge of all investigative and scientific work. F. J. Bailey, for years chief clerk of the bureau, becomes assistant to Director Manning, in charge of executive work.

J. E. Spurr, well-known mining engineer of New York, who, at the outbreak of the war, became director of war minerals investigations, and after the passage of the war minerals relief bill was appointed chief of investigative work in connection with relief claims, has resigned to become editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal of New York. No successor to Mr. Spurr has been appointed. H. E. Meyer, chief clerk of the war minerals relief commission has been appointed chief clerk of the bureau of mines and G. F. Robertson succeeds Mr. Meyer.

ENGLISH TITLES SOLD, SO CHARGES GEN. CROFT

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The tender spot in British political life today is the disposition of titles. These are awarded, of course, by the king, but on the nomination of the prime minister, and have been given for a long time and by various prime ministers for purely party reasons and practically bought by contributions to party funds.

The house of lords has a peculiar interest in this matter because the old noble families are jealous of having their caste lowered by the addition of the newly rich, and purely rich to the orders of nobility.

The question was threshed out last year and there was a general understanding that hereafter when honors were announced the reason for their bestowal should be published. This has been done in form but it is all set out in substance, because several much criticized honors in the last list were described as "for public services," which meant almost anything.

The new national party, which has a few members in the house of commons, has taken to the question. The chairman, Gen. Page Croft, has written to the newspapers proposing to prove before any judicial committee that since 1910 no member of parliament has received an offer of a title in return for a cash payment to party funds and that the father of a member of the house of commons was offered a baronetcy for 25,000 pounds.

He charged also that a member of parliament who was created a peer after the beginning of the war subscribed shortly afterward a very large sum of money to a newspaper that supports the premier.
